Farmers' Alliances and Gold. The Farmers' Alliances and the thirdparty doctribaires, backed by the Greenbackers, keep up a sort of running fire and that the evening of upon the monometallists and their teachings, and make some points worthy of se rious consideration. We shall not be ac cused of financial heresy, we trust, if we endeavor to learn from both sides what merit there is in their various contentions though we cannot but be aware that there are advocates of the sub-Treasury schem who think that we are not willing to add as much as ought to be added to the of the circulating medium of the country. We say to such that we cannot consent to go anywhere unless Truth leads us thither. Not absolute truth, but truth as it presents itself to our own mind. And we would also remind our good friends of the campaign of 1878, when the DISPATCH was forced by its re gard for sound doctrine to antagonize the views of so many men who were true Democrats in every respect except that they had been led away from the straight road by the specious theories of the Greenbackers. Who will now say that we were wrong in 1878? Where is the leading editor wh would now, as one did then, come out it favor of printing greenbacks until the whole face of the earth was covered with them to the depth of several inches? In a word, we do not concede that we are bound in duty to advocate the sub Treasury scheme because we advocate the free coinage of silver; nor that we must oppose every proposition started by the Greenbackers because we oppose their scheme for pauperizing the people and bringing our financial system to an untimely end. Here, for example, is a Greenbackers' proposition stated in a few words and yet based upon a truth-namely "Gold is assumed to vary little in relation to other things, and they to vary much in relation to gold; but nobody can know how much gold does vary relatively to other things." It is because the impecunious masses feel that this proposition is true that they are restless under the monometallist single standard of values, It is because they feel that there is something wrong in taking gold as the on measure of values-the one thing which is to measure all other things-that they are full of strange conceits as to how they may get their necks out of the yoke which they contend was put upon them not only without their consent but wrongfully and inexcusably. It is because they never see the metal which has been crowned king of see every day the discresilver coins that they deplore their condition as hopeless under their present rulers and cast about for a new party-one which shall regard the interests of the masses as

The extremes to which go the Green backers or sub-Treasury advocates, as well as the gold-standard doctrinaires, are merely the result of the weakness of human nature, and we need not expect men ever to become wise enough to indulge in no vagaries.

The moral of this article is that the Democrats of Virginia cannot afford to fall out with human nature, but must take it as it is and do the best they can with it We must not antagonize the Farmers' Alliances any further than a regard for po litical and economic truth shall compel us to antagonize them. We must not act as if we were infallible, but must haten respectfully to the farmers' statements of their grievances and aid them as far as possible in their efforts to better their condition. For after all is said and done which it is possible to say and do on this subject, it remains as true now as it was in the beginning that in the sweat of his brow-ip cultivating the land-man must earn his daily bread. Not a few men, but all men are included in this language. Whose liveth at all, liveth because the cultivators of the soil cause the earth to yield its "kindly fruits."

Richmond's Chamber.

The annual report of the President of the Chamber of Commerce which we print to-day gives a bird's-eye view of the business interests of the city for the last twelve months.

It is a paper which merits attention because it comes from an authoritative source and because it deals with topics of general interest in a calm and practical way.

It shows that Richmond is prospering and that we have it in our power to improve our advantages greatly if there is that united effort which may now be expected since the Chamber has reached a membership of six hundred and become a quickening power in so many noble en-

The Chamber's building will soon be erected on the three lots at the southwest corner of Main and Ninth streets, and will be for its purposes what the City Hall and Masonic Temple will be for theirs.

President JOHN B. PURCELL Was re-elected unanimously and is now entering upon his third term. The office has always sought him. He has filled it admirably, though it has exacted much of his time and attention. He has given to the city an example of unselfishness and public spirit which

Mr. S. W. TRAVERS yesterday evening brought before the Chamber the subject of an abattoir, and it was referred to a committee for inquiry and report.

This is a movement which the general public will heartily applaud. Richmond needs such an establishment for the cleanliness and convenience it will give in the butchering of live stock for our market, and it needs it, also, to the end that the existing slaughter-houses may be removed from our northwestern suburbs to make room for neat dwellings.

The Veterans and History.

rans at its meeting held at Fredericksburg Wednesday appointed a committee to try to secure an acceptable history for use in the schools and colleges of the South.

At last we have an earnest step in the right direction. The demand for such a book is so great that both honor and profit await him who comes nearest to the standard that may be set for the work wanted. The history should be suited to the understanding of youth and be accurate without being prolix and should be published It will be impossible to accomplish what is desired unless such concert of action can be obtained as will secure for the un-

fertaking the cordial support of the peo ple of all the southern States. We must first resolve that we will have an honest history. Then we must deter-mine to patronize the best one that is offered to us and improve it in new editions year by year, as faults appear, or desirable mprovements are suggested.

We will never get the history we need by decrying northern authors and publishers, and showering our money upon them pass a law to take effect in future impairing the obligation of contracts." True to the letter. But yet the DISPATCH supports the Riddleberger and the coupon-crusher bills. Consistency is not a jewel to some newspapers. - Alexandria Gazette

The funding bill and the McCulloca bill and all measures intended to provide a method of paying the State debt were advocated by the Disparch until the people spoke in thunder tones against all of those chemes as schemes for bankrupting the State. We did not choose to fight a hopeless battle or to continue advocating those measures when our advocacy of them sould have no other result than the permanent turning of Virginia over to the Republicans,

The State of yesterday evening very handsomely expresses through its editorial columns the regret which the community feels at the retirement of Mr. Isaac Daven-PORT from the presidency of the First National Bank. In all that our neighbor says in praise of Mr. DAVENPORT and in wishing for his restoration to health we heartily join. He is a good and useful citizen, and we owe much to his clear head, firm purpose, and good heart. His usefulness is reat, and is wholly without ostentation. We trust that he will be long spared to us, and that the evening of his life may be Burch, to send a dispatch for him. He had been informed that the telegraph office was there, but Burch, supposing Shelly was joking, referred him to a man sitting near as the operator. Shelly found out that he had been loked, and being in liquor, he and his companions jerked off their costs and proposed to whip the barkeeper. Burch went out, returned with a rifle, and ordered them out of his house. They advanced on him. Shelly armed with a hammer. Burch fired, the ball striking Shelly just below the nippie.
